A novel about the end of days full of surprising beginnings The world is living in the shadow of oncoming disaster. An asteroid is set to strike the earth in just one week's time; catastrophe is unavoidable. The question isn't how to save the world--the question is, what to do with the time that's left? Alexandra Coutts's TUMBLE & FALL is a powerful story of courage, love, and hope at the end of the world.

On the small island of Molokai in Hawaii, five lifelong friends set out on a trip to "Daggert's Volcano Park." Their destination is a secluded beach where they can grab some rest and relaxation in a private paradise. Though their lives are hardly exciting, their daily routines are unassuming and predictable. Somehow this short vacation changes everything when a simple hike turns them into cold-blooded killers. When things escalate, they form a death squad of amateur assassins. The troop is new to the game of rubbing out targets but the problems they encounter have nothing to do with their murderous skills. Killing people is the easy part. It's what they have to do afterward that becomes a revolving door of misery. If they can stay one step ahead of the police, they may come out on top in the end. But the law isn't their biggest threat--it's each other.

Jason Cashman has reached the goal he spent the last twenty years seeking, but instead of feeling content, he feels empty. They set out to check off as many wishes as possible, but when Jason's transplanted heart begins to fail, he must choose between his obligations to the past and his hope for a future.

A major new manifesto for the end of capitalism Neoliberalism isn't working. Austerity is forcing millions into poverty and many more into precarious work, while the left remains trapped in stagnant political practices that offer no respite. Inventing the Future is a bold new manifesto for life after capitalism. Against the confused understanding of our high-tech world by both the right and the left, this book claims that the emancipatory and future-oriented possibilities of our society can be reclaimed. Instead of running from a complex future, Nick Srnicek and Alex Williams demand a postcapitalist economy
